Dan,

As requested.

About 20 people showed up outside the EPA Region III office today to support EPA "whistle blowers" (as reported by LA Times) and call for a reopening of the investigation of possible drinking water contamination in Dimock Pa. The event was organized by a local group called "Protecting Our Waters" and featured two Dimock residents. The demonstrators had at least two large banners. The Local ABC affiliate was the only visible media. The demonstrators did not attempt to deliver petitions or meet with anyone from EPA.
